Happy Birthday, Corrine Shephard!

Leominster Mayor Dean Mazzarella attended a birthday celebration last week for Ms. Corrine Shephard, who turned 105, making her the official eldest resident in Leominster. Corrine is the recipient of the Boston Post Cane, which has been a tradition in many towns for over 100 years when the former Boston Post publisher Edwin A. Grozier sent about 700 canes to New England towns in 1909. Since then the cane has gone missing twice, most recently in 2009 during office renovations. A replica was purchased in order to continue the tradition.
